FOREWORD

"The design of the present work is to present a comprehensive account of the SUCCESSION OF MINISTERS of the Church of Scotland since the period of the Reformation. An attempt is made to give some additional interest by furnishing incidental notices of their lives, writings and families, which may prove useful to the Biographer, the Genealogist and the Historian."

So wrote Hew Scott in 1866 when he completed the work which is the starting point of Fasti Ecclesiæ Scoticanæ. This purpose, which remains the same for this Volume, was continued in the New Edition of Hew Scott's work published in seven volumes between 1915 and 1928 under the direction of a distinguished committee headed by the Rev W. S. Crockett, DD, Minister at Tweedsmuir, the General Editor, and carried on through Volumes VIII (1950) and IX (1961). It is a great honour to stand in the succession of Hew Scott, Dr W. S. Crockett, Sir Francis Grant and Dr John Lamb, as a contributor to the record of the Ministers of the Church of Scotland.

The Fasti, which means a "Roll or Register of Officials", could conceivably extend through the history of the Church into the Roman Empire and earlier Republic which recorded in detail the family and career of all administrators. The present Volume then is but a small part of a larger and continuing work which is of lasting significance. It is of inestimable value not only to genealogists but also to all enquirers who are interested in the Ministers of the Church of Scotland.

The General Assembly of 1975 passed an Act readjusting as from the end of that year the Presbyterial structure of the Church and it is appropriate therefore that this Volume should conclude at that date.

I am indebted, more than I can say, to the Rev Dr Iain R. Torrance for meticulous proof-reading, to Mr James Snowball of William Blackwood & Sons Ltd, Printers, for limitless patience and help in producing this record and the Church as a whole acknowledges the contributions made by the General Administration Committee, the Committee on Publications and certain charitable trusts which together financed the publication of this Volume.

ST JAMES' (POLLOK) (FES IX, 297)

Work was first started in the vast new development at Pollok under the leadership of the Rev J. Clarence Finlayson in 1948. Since only one site was available at that time for the Church of Scotland, the decision was taken to transport the redundant church and halls at Titwood, Pollokshields, to this site at Pollok. The work took four years to complete, and when in Sept 1953 the church (capable of seating some 800 people) was opened it was already obvious that the accommodation was totally inadequate for the needs of the area. Fortunately, about that time another site became available at Barnbeth Road and it was agreed that an auxiliary hall-church should be erected there and a second minister appointed to the Parish. This hall-church, begun in Sept 1953, was dedicated on 14 Jan 1956.

TRINITY GASK. The derivation of this name has caused some difficulty. Gask means slope, but the word Trinity has caused speculation, the most satisfactory explanation being that the parish was named after the church, which was dedicated to the Holy Trinity. In pre-Reformation times there seem to have been at least two churches, one at Kinkell and dedicated to St Bean. The ruins of this church are still to be seen. The other was dedicated to the Holy Trinity and probably situated where the present church stands. There may have been a third as the name Chapelhill implies, but nothing definitely is known. There is evidence that the two churches were in existence in 1200. In 1639 the two churches were united. Early in the 18th Century a Secession Church was built near the ruins of St Bean's Church, and eventually it was united also with Trinity Gask, in 1931. Both churches are still used for public worship.

SYNOD OF ROSS, SUTHERLAND AND CAITHNESS

Information, corrigenda and addenda to Vol VII supplied by Rev William Matheson, former Reader in Celtic at Edinburgh University.

Page 46 LOGAIDH FRAOICH is not correct. It is LOGAIDH BHRIDE. There was a dedication to St Bride. See Watson, Celtic Place-names of Scotland, p 275.

Page 50 The Rev John Morrison was not the author of A Description of the Lewis; this was by his father, John Morrison, tacksman of Bragar (see W. Matheson, The Blind Harper (1970), p 207). The latter, incidentally, was not "judge of the Lewis", as previously stated (p 49).

Page 65 William Pape: the correct date of the riot is 1 July 1608 (Register of the Privy Council).

Page 134 Donald MacAulay was born on 4 Dec 1832, and his father's name was not "Zachary", but Donald (North Uist Baptismal Register).

Page 146 Farquhar Macrae and Farquhar MacKenzie are the same person. The dates cited make this obvious. A Macrae could be classed as a MacKenzie when away from home, for example as a University student, because the Macraes held their lands from the MacKenzies.

Page 149 Alan Clerk and Allan Maclennan are the same person, for the reasons explained below. He was a son of the Rev Donald Maclennan alias Clerk, minister of Lochalsh (Dunvegan Muniments).

Page 153 Donald Maclennan was a son of Donald Maclennan (Domhnall Dearg), tacksman of Morvich, Kintail (MSS of Alexander Matheson, Dornie).

Page 155 Donald Clark: he was a Maclennan (see below). His sons were: (1) Rorie; (2) John, and it was he, and not his father, who married a daughter of John MacKenzie, first of Ord (Macfarlane's Genealogical Collections I. 91); (3) Allan, minister of Glenelg; and there was (4) a daughter Christian, who married, not "Matthew", but Murdoch Matheson, tacksman of Balmacara. See MacKenzie, History of the Mathesons, p 61.

Page 156 In Lochbroom Clerk or Clark (in Gaelic Cléireach) was a cognomen of the Maclennans, among whom Farquhar was a frequently recurring name; and Donald Clark (alias Maclennan) and Donald Farquharson (his patronymic) are the same person. Once again, this is obvious from the dates cited.

Page 161 The information about Lachlan MacKenzie should be corrected and extended by reference to the Rev D. Beaton's Noted Ministers of the Northern Highlands, p 76.

Page 180 For "Bhoinneamh" read Choinneamh, and for "Mhie" read Mhic (1st column, 4th and 3rd lines from foot).

Page 188 John Bethune: "1725" is incorrect; it may be a misprint for "1795".

Page 191 Allan MacQueen: for "Codrum" read MacCodrum.

Page 194 Lauchlan MacLeod: Angus was not an Admiral. He may have been a Captain.

Page 195 John MacAulay (foot of 2nd column) was not a son of John MacAulay, tacksman of Baleloch. According to the Morrison MSS in Stornoway Library, he was a son of Donald MacAulay, tacksman of Braenish, Uig, Lewis; and this is confirmed by the Glenelg Synod Register.

Incidentally, the tacksman of Baleloch was not John, but Donald MacAulay, who was the father of the Rev Neil MacAulay, who appears in the Uist Presbytery Records as missionary minister in Harris. In another volume of Fasti it is erroneously stated that the Rev Neil was a son of the Rev Kenneth MacAulay (see under Cawdor). The Rev Kenneth had no son called Neil.

Page 200 Donald Morrison is entered twice, but it is the same person; and also the same person as the first Donald Morrison entered under Stornoway. He served in Barvas, then in Stornoway, and then once more in Barvas. Some of the dates given should be revised by reference to Duncan MacTavish's Records of the Synod of Argyll (Scottish History Society).

Murdoch Morrison was married twice. Allan and Donald were the children of the first wife, whose identity has not been established (Lewis Presbytery Records).

Page 205 Farquhar Clerk (or Maclennan) did not marry Jean Lauder, who was the wife of Donald Morrison immediately below (and see p 200).

Kenneth Morrison was not a son of Donald Morrison, minister of Barvas, but of Murdoch Morrison, tacksman of Gress. He was an uncle of the Rev Angus Morrison, Contin, and the Rev John Morrison, Urray. This has recently been established from a letter written by a great-grandson of his, Alexander Morrison, Stornoway, in 1823.

The Rev Daniel (or Donald) Morrison was not educated at St Andrews University. He graduated MA at Edinburgh University, 20 Apr 1698 (Devine Papers; Roll of Edinburgh Graduates).

PRESBYTERY OF UIST

Information, corrigenda and addenda to Vol VII supplied by Rev Roderick MacLeod, minister at Bernera.

ST KILDA LAUCHLAN MACLEOD is said to have demitted the charge in 1830, but John MacDonald of Ferintosh writes in his journal: "He left them in April, 1821, having officiated aboute thirty two years."

PETER DAVIDSON appointed in 1829, did not in fact take up the charge, or visit St Kilda: the entry does not make this clear.

TRUMISGARRY From 1802-29 this was only a Royal Bounty mission station, which is not clear from the entry. (On this principle all Royal Bounty stations, eg, Tarbert and Boisdale, in Uist Presbytery would have to be included.) In any case, the first missionary at Trumisgarry was not William Arbuckle, as shown in Fasti, but DONALD MACLEAN, appointed 1 November 1802.

HUGH MACDONALD is described as "born Benbecula 1822". This should probably be 1812, as his age is given as 48 in the 1861 Census, when he was minister of Bernera.

BERNERA JOHN BETHUNE'S birth date is obviously incorrect. Possibly it should be 1795 instead of 1725. Also. he was appointed to Tarbert mission in 1821, not 1831 (when he would already have been minister of Bernera).

1928 MURDO SMITH is said to have been admitted to the united charge of Bernera and Benbecula on 5 May 1932. This is impossible: he was simply translated to Benbecula in that year, where there would probably have been a local union between UF and C of S. (In fact under Benbecula, the correct version is given.)

CORBY

In the early 'thirties large numbers of Lanarkshire people in the employment of Stewart and Lloyds removed to Corby, Northamptonshire, where special industrial developments were taking place. The Presbyterian Church of England, finding itself unable to cater for this influx, agreed that the National Church Extension Committee should undertake the erection of a church and hall. These buildings were erected during the period 1937-9. After the war, Corby continued to grow into a town of considerable size and the transfer of workers from Scotland recommenced. Approach was made by the Kirk Session of Corby to the National Church Extension Committee for help in the erection of a larger church hall. The Committee agreed to give this help, and the Home Board Architect designed the building. Work was begun on 4 Jan 1956 and the Moderator of the General Assembly dedicated the building on 18 Nov 1957.
